To identify and strengthen leaders so that every congregation makes new and mature disciples for Jesus Christ.

Upcoming Seminars

I wanted to take today's top article as a reminder that we're having a couple of great seminars coming up at First Presbyterian Church of Lakeland that I think are worth paying attention to. I plan to attend both of these, and I personally think that these will be of great benefit to pastors and leaders in our churches. On June 28th, we'll learn about family systems approach to reducing Anxiety in the church, and from Oct 2nd to Oct 6th, there will be a Mediation Skills Training Institute certification class that will teach participants how to deal with conflict in the church. Church conflict is often the source of unnecessary decline and the loss of the peace and joy that we ought to have in Christ. Let's do what we can to prevent that!

Use this brochure to promote these in your church:

News From Around the Presbytery

Presbyterian Peace Fellowship releases gun violence prevention toolkit

National Gun Violence Awareness Day recognized with #WearOrange hashtag

LOUISVILLE - Today marks the third annual observance of National Gun Violence Awareness Day. As advocates remember the 138 mass shootings and 6,303 people who have been killed as a result of gun violence so far in 2017, the Presbyterian Peace Fellowship has released its Gun Violence Prevention Congregational Toolkit.

"This new toolkit updates a previous version and provides new and current resources to those who seek to stand in opposition to the epidemic of gun violence in this country," says the Rev. Carl Horton, coordinator for the Presbyterian Peacemaking Program. "The Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) continues to call its members to demand sensible legislation and reasonable safeguards to significantly reduce the toll that gun violence takes each year on the people of our nation."

The cover of the new toolkit features a photo of the Presbyterian Church of Chestnut Hill (Pennsylvania) with 331 crosses covered in t-shirts with the names of gun violence victims in their community. Across the nation, Presbyterians are beginning to discuss and act on the once-taboo topic of gun violence in America. In 2016, over 33,000 Americans died from gun violence and 100,000 were injured.

The revised toolkit builds on and replaces an earlier version from 2009, with the new edition offering more focus on action to prevent gun violence, including sample "No Guns in God's House" signage for religious properties such as churches, schools, camps and other faith-based facilities. In 2014 the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), the denomination's highest body, called for the posting of such signs on church buildings as a witness to the need to reduce gun violence in America.

"If 98 Americans were dying every day in plane crashes - day in, day out, every single day - we would all be talking about it," says Margery Rossi, Chair of the Peace Fellowship's Gun Violence Prevention Working Group, which produced the new toolkit. "As Americans we must learn about and talk about this issue and not be intimidated by the NRA [National Rifle Association] or the gun and ammunition industry. Local congregations can bring together those who own guns and those who do not to start this conversation and to find middle ground in the search for solutions. We do not have to live this way."

Horton highlights the other work Presbyterians are doing to raise awareness in the effort to prevent gun related violence and deaths.

"The Presbyterian Peace Fellowship has been an excellent partner in our denomination's efforts to address gun violence," he says. "They, along with the Peacemaking Program and Presbyterian Disaster Assistance, have together sought to provide reliable resources that educate, build awareness and inspire meaningful and effective action by our congregations and members."

On June 12, 2017, the first anniversary of the Orlando Pulse nightclub mass shooting, the Presbyterian Peace Fellowship will announce a national program to help implement the Presbyterian "No Guns in God's House" signage program.

DAY CAMP 2017 BRANCHING OUT

Cedarkirk Camp & Conference Center is thrilled to partner with Peace Memorial Presbyterian Church to bring an exciting week of day camp to your backyard!

We are bringing camp to you! That means your camper has five days to laugh, run, play, sing, make friends, build community, learn about God, grow deeper in his or her faith, be challenged - physically and spiritually, and have the most fun they can possibly have in one week of camp.

Our nurturing and energetic counseling staff will shepherd your camper and their small-group through a week of BRANCHING OUT! During engaging and developmentally-appropriate activities and discussions, campers will explore how we are connected to one another - and to God - through Christ.

Each day's scripture focus will encourage campers to use prayer, relationships, family, and more to stay connected to God and to their communities throughout their lives. Campers will participate in large and small group games, complete arts & crafts projects, sing camp songs, learn about our world and how to care for it, and feel loved and valued as individuals and as part of a community of faith.

PDA members receive training throughout the year in areas such as natural and human-caused disasters, emotional and spiritual care, church damage, post-disaster volunteer work force housing, long-term community rebuilding, and refugee and immigration in disaster response.

In addition, in Atlanta, volunteers participated in sessions dealing with racism and privilege, and suicide awareness. Guest speakers from Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), and Volunteer Organizations Active in Disaster (VOAD), a consortium of groups that respond during disasters were featured. PDA is made up of 102 clergy and lay members representing 34 states and Puerto Rico. NRT members commit to 1 month of service annually. In 2016, national volunteers spent approximately 2,377 days in 62 presbyteries in response to church damage, floods, hurricanes, tornadoes, wildfires, storms, human caused disasters and in the refugee ministry.

PDA enables congregations and mission partners of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) to witness the healing love of Christ through caring for communities adversely affected by crises and catastrophic events.
